Carved into a living rock the temple was known as Djoser-Djeseru 'Holiest of the Holy' to the Ancient Egyptians and is now known as Deir el-Bahri, 'Monastery of the North' after the Coptic monastery which used the site from the 5th century to the 19th century AD. Last but not least, the Valley of the Queens is an isolated cemetery, at the southern part of the vast necropolis of Thebes, on the west bank of Luxor and it contains about 70 tombs, mainly belonging to Queens, Princesses, Princes, and Nobles, who lived during the XIX and XX Dynasties.

Then, at the southern end of the vast pyramid field, you will find the village of Dashun, an impressive pyramid location with two particularly notable examples, the Red Pyramid and the Bent Pyramid, both the work of one pharaoh, Snofru. Your next destination will be Memphis, the first capital of united Ancient Egypt. An enormous colossus of Ramses II - displayed lying on its back, giving you unique access to viewing its intricate detail - and an immense alabaster sphinx monolith are two of the highlights of this destination.
